

The California Naturalist Handbook

GREG DE NEVERS, DEBORAH STANGER EDELMAN, AND ADINA MERENLENDER

“Everyone interested in creating a sustainable society should have a copy of The California Naturalist Handbook.”

Paul R. Ehrlich, co-author of The Dominant Animal

“This book reminds students of what makes California a brilliant place to explore and experience nature.”

Ann Wasser, Pacific Grove Natural History Museum

“The California Naturalist Handbook is the new, go-to reference for any question about the nature of the state, its energy resources, land management and environmental concerns.”

Rich Stallcup, author of California Traveler Birds of California

“This is a dangerous book. If you start reading it, you may find yourself having the uncontrollable desire to study the insects in your backyard, examine the rocks in a local roadcut, or look for frogs along a mountain stream.”

Peter Moyle, author of Fishes: An Enthusiast’s Guide

The California Naturalist Handbook, the primary text for the California Naturalist Program, provides a fun, science-based introduction to California’s natural history with an emphasis on observation, discovery, communication, stewardship and conservation. It is a hands-on guide to learning about the natural environment of California. Subjects covered include California natural history and geology, native plants and animals, California’s freshwater resources and ecosystems, forest and rangeland resources, conservation biology, and the effects of global warming on California’s natural communities.

Greg de Nevers is a botanist and naturalist with years of experience observing nature and sharing it with others through writing and teaching.

Deborah Stanger Edelman co-founded the California Naturalist Program and has over 20 years experience developing resource conservation and education programs for organizations.

Adina Merenlender is an internationally recognized conservation biologist, and is the Director of the UC California Naturalist program.
